

Spring Quarter Sunday School Classes

Classes begin Sunday, March 12, 2023

Proclaiming Christ Like the Apostle Paul so That The World May Know:

As Christians, we're called to proclaim God's name in all the earth (1 Chronicles 16:8), but how do we to do that in the midst of false gospels? Kent Biery, Ben Gallagher and Steve Hall will lead a video-based class that explores how the Apostle Paul proclaimed Jesus to an unbelieving culture. Each class will include a video segment followed by discussion about how the Lord is equipping and empowering us to engage the culture we live in today. This class will be held in the Library.

The Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5, 6, 7):

If you are a person who loves the red letter addition of the Bible, you will love this class. The Sermon on the Mount is the longest teaching discourse of Jesus recorded in the Bible. Nancy Van Atwerp and Mike will be leading this time as we allow some of the most challenging words in Scripture to mold and shape our lives. Hopefully together we can help some very familiar teaching become new and fresh understanding for our hearts and souls. This class will be held in the Multi-Purpose Room.

Parenting: Aiming Your Child's Heart Toward God:

Julie Bowlby, Jenny Halverson and Scott Steltzer will be facilitating a discussion-oriented class on parenting based upon Family Life's video series. This excellent series addresses issues related to forming character, applying discipline, nurturing identity, the power of the family, and other parenting topics from a Biblical perspective. This class will be in the Choir Room.
